The Honorable McGeorge Bundy
Special Assistant to the President
The White House
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mac:

Confirming our conversation of the other day, I will be most appreciative if you will make the necessary arrangements for me to receive copies of certain categories of memoranda which are normally distributed to the Department of State and which might have a significant bearing on our intelligence estimates.

The types of papers to which I have reference are copies of correspondence and messages to and from the President and Chiefs of State or other high officials and memoranda of conversations between the President and like officials. Copies of such documents should be forwarded to my personal attention, and I can assure you they will be for very limited use only within the Agency.

Sincerely,

John A. McCone
